COLORADO.

Effective Blow at the Strike.

LEADVILLE, June 11. A citizens' organization of three thousand strong have been armed this morning for the purpose of protecting miners who are willing to work at the old wages. They issued a proclamation this morning, saying they are fully armed and prepared to protect the working miners, and that if any violence or intimidation of any kind is offered by members of the miners' union, or others, the leaders of the union will be held responsible with their lives. It is thought the crisis is now at an end, and the determined stand taken by the citizens will have the effect of entirely breaking up the strike.

GENERAL NEWS.

Washington News.

CONFERENCE ON UTE BILL.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A conference committee on the Indian bill agreed to report an amendment, directing the secretary of the interior to locate the Uncompahgre and Southern Utes on the agricultural lands in Colorado, provided sufficient agricultural lands can be obtained within the limits of the present Ute reservation in Colorado to accommodate them. In the event of the secretary failing to find sufficient agricultural lands in the Colorado reservation to accommodate them, then he is directed by the amendment to locate those unprovided for in Colorado upon the unoccupied agricultural lands in New Mexico in the vicinity of La Platte river, or in Utah within the limits of the present Uintah reservation.

LOVE AMONG THE—DEMOCRATS.

The Kellogg resolution came up in the senate again to-day, and Senator Ben Hill sharply replied to his democratic critics. He favored the resolution and criticised the action of the democrats in opposing him.

Senator Butler explained and sustained his position.

Senator Hill in a further speech declared that his own bravery during the war was not inferior to that of Hampton's and he was brave enough now not to boast of his own achievements nor depreciate those of Hampton's. It required no war to make him a union man. He had always been one. He needed to make no sacrifices to show the northern people that he had been brought to the condition of submissive and subservient loyalty. He said Spofford's title was much clearer than Butler's.

Senator Butler said his respect for him would not be increased if he understood Hill voted to admit him, when he doubted his election. If he now had the slightest doubt of the election, let him move to vacate the seat and he would join him and ask an investigation. He was glad to learn that Hill was a union man, but there were four years when we did not hear very much of it.

The Kellogg resolution was then postponed by a strict party vote in order to stop the unseemly family quarrel.

POLITICAL DEBATE IN THE HOUSE.

There was a very interesting debate in the house to day on the marshal's bill.

The references to Garfield aroused great applause on the republican side of the house and in the galleries. The following is a brief summary of the more striking speeches:

Mr. Humphrey thought the pending bill should be entitled "a bill to bring into disgrace free institutions."

Mr White moved an amendment by striking out the proposition requiring deputies to be equally from the different political parties.

Other amendments were offered, but the previous question was seconded, leaving Harries an hour to close. He advocated the bill. It did not interfere with the duties of deputy marshals in any way. It did not take away the power of the marshals to appoint any general deputies for election purposes, because they have no such power now. Mr. Harries had read by the clerk Garfield's remarks on this bill and reproached the republicans with now refusing to follow its great leader.

Mr. Cox charged Garfield had suppressed all attempts to reform the tariff.

Mr. Carlisle had Garfield's remarks on free trade read, in which Garfield said he favored protection, which leads to ultimate free trade. Carlisle asked Kelly if he favored this view.

Kelly said he had repeatedly declared the only road to free trade was through protection.

The republicans applauded frequently during this passage and Robinson asked for more good reading of Garfield's speeches.

Mr. Hawley said it was said that the proposition of the bill had been suggested by Garfield. In the abounding good-nature of his magnificent heart, that gentleman has suggested something to-day on which the democratic party had built this bill. That party had run for it eagerly, hoping it might thus escape the issue. Even the suggestion had been made that it was a matter of policy from the grand heart of that man, because the responsibility had been on the other side.

Mr. Cox moved to further exemplify Garfield's position by reading extracts, and the republicans expressed gratification thereat. Cox complimented Garfield as being better than the rest of them, to which Mr. Conger readily assented. Cox humorously alluded to the noise in the Chicago convention and to the relative quietness in the house during their absence. After some bright bright repartees among Cox, Keifer and Robinson, Cox closed by predicting that with a good ticket at Cincinnati the democrats would be successful in November.

Mr. Carlisle's amendment was adopted, authorizing the judges of the circuit court of the United States to open their respective courts at any time for the purpose of appointing deputy marshals. All other amendments were rejected and the bill then passed by a vote of 110 to 85.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The senate confirmed E. Schuyler of New York, now consul general at Rome, to be consul general and diplomatic agent of the United States at Bucharest; M. M. Jackson, now consul at Halifax, to be United States consul general at that place; and W. G. Rich secretary of the territory of New Mexico.

Another Oil Fire

BRADFORD, PA., June 11.—This forenoon at seven o'clock, the lightning struck a twenty thousand barrel iron tank of oil of the Tideout Pipe Co., located on an eminence above Titusville. The oil took fire and later the fire communicated to another tank of the same size, owned by the same company. At one o'clock the burning oil overflowed and ran down the hillside consuming everything in its course. The Octave Oil Works, the largest refineries in the world, is now burning. The oil ran into Oil Creek and threatened the destruction of a large amount of property in the city. Persons residing in the neighborhood have without their household goods gone to a place of safety. At five o'clock the fire was still increasing, having reached Franklin and Washington streets, and threatened the destruction of the railroad bridge. The fire department from Carry Oil City and Warren are in the city in answer to a telegram from the mayor for aid, acting with the fire department of Titusville. At 7 p. m. the buildings along both sides of Broad street were burning and about a hundred thousand barrels of oil. Estimated total loss is about $2,000,000. There is great excitement in the city, but the business portion at this hour is believed to be safe, being mostly composed of brick buildings.

BRADFORD, June 12, 1 a. m. Another iron tank burst and set fire to the Franklin street bridge. The Octave refinery on the north side is now in flames. The fire is spreading rapidly.

Good Talk at West Point.

WEST POINT, June 11.—A portion of the address of the secretary of war to the graduates to-day was considered significant in view of the Whittaker case. It was as follows:

It is the pre-emptory duty of the graduates of this academy, who are beneficiaries of all our people, to symbolize their faith in the vital source of our national strength, the equality of manhood, by recognizing the right of all persons, of whatever condition, to strive, for the attainment of such position as their abilities and desires may warrant. It is an ignoble thing to be governed by imaginary superiority over any of our less fortunate fellow-citizens; born in adverse circumstances, and thrice ignoble to make active exhibition of so unworthy a sentiment by oppressing those whom we may deem beneath us. True manhood dictates the extending of a helping hand to lift up the lowly, and words of encouragement to those who are struggling to elevate themselves. I ask you, my young friends, to give some thought to these suggestions and to cultivate not only love of country, but as well a love for the sentiments of which our country was born.

The address was loudly applauded. As the diplomas were awarded, cadets Wilcox, Tate and Turner were loudly cheered by the corps when they advanced to take theirs. This was significant, because upon these cadets Whittaker had cast much suspicion.

General Sherman's address was of a humorous character and created much merriment.

More Destruction.

MILWAUKEE, June 11. The Sentinel's La Crosse special says five million feet of logs owned by Sprecher & Mueller, broke away last night. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

National Greenback Convention.

CHICAGO, June 11.—About one o'clock this morning the greenbackers began presenting the names of candidates for the presidential nomination. The first ballot was taken at 4 10 with the following result:

Weaver	226
Wright	123
Dillaye	117
Charles E. Butler	95
Allis	41
Campbell	21

In the first formal ballot most of the votes were transferred to Weaver, and before the close of the roll call, he having received over 500, there was a general stampede to him, and the chair announced that General James B. Weaver, of Iowa, was the nominee of the greenback labor party for president.

On the first ballot for vice president there were only nominated A. L. West of Mississippi, and B. J. Chambers of Texas. West received 300 votes and Chambers 414, and the latter was declared the nominee of the convention. The socialists insisted on the passage of their resolution regarding the inherent right of man to the soil, and it was adopted.

The convention was very turbulent throughout the night and adjourned at 6:45 this morning.

Strength of Democratic Presidential Candidates.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Herald's table gives the following delegates to the Cincinnati convention:

Tilden	185
Bayard	129
Seymour	66
Hancock	79
Thurman	67
Randolph	18
Field	43
English	2
Hendricks	35
Morrison	8
Chase, of Maine	14

Necessary to choice, 432.
Yet to be elected, 41.

Garfield's Chances on the Pacific.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Mr. Page, of California, is in New York, having come from Chicago. Speaking to the Tribune reporters of the feeling likely to exist in regard to Garfield's nomination west of the Rocky mountains, Page said it will no doubt at first be said that Garfield voted to sustain the veto by the president of the Chinese bill, but Garfield has expressed himself in private as in favor of some restrictive legislation, and I have personal knowledge that he is in sympathy with the public sentiment in California on this subject; at least to as great an extent as the Chinese plank introduced in the platform, and Garfield will have an opportunity to put himself on record.

Blaine's popularity in Colorado, Oregon and Nevada was due to his stand on the Chinese question. This matter aside, I think Garfield will prove to be as strong a man as could have been selected. I have served eight years with him in Congress, and I know him to have been one of the clearest headed of statesmen, a man sound all through the financial fight and the friend of sound money and resumption. It is my judgment that Garfield will receive the full republican vote in Colorado, Nevada and Oregon, which are close states and, that he will carry them all.

Horatio Seymour's Views.

NEW YORK, June 11. Governor Seymour, was this afternoon shown a dispatch to the press from Syracuse, stating that the Syracuse Courier of to-day, would urge his nomination and give assurances he would not decline. The Utica Observer this afternoon published the dispatch and adds the following: There is no truth of suggestion contained in the foregoing that Governor Seymour has in any way changed or modified his position. He says now as he has said at all times that he is not and can't be a candidate and he could not accept a nomination even if one were tendered to him. He deems it improper for any one to enter upon any public office when his health is unequal to the performance of the labor. He alone can judge of this, and can't yield his decision to the opinion of others. He has never contemplated the possibilities of his nomination and has only regarded the mention of his name as one of the coincidents which always mark the political speculation before the meeting of a convention. In reply to any complimentary allusions, he has always distinctly and clearly stated his purpose to withdraw from any part in any public affairs, although he felt a deep interest in the success of the party to which he was attached. In stating what he says upon this point, we only repeat his words.

Complaints About General Hatch

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—A Tucson dispatch says a mass meeting was held by the citizens of Grant county, New Mexico, Monday night, at Silver City. Five hundred prominent citizens were present. Resolutions severely censuring General Hatch and command, were unanimously passed; demanding his removal and the appointment of a new command and force. Captain Parker, chief of scouts of San Carlos reservation, and Captain Madden were eulogized for their services in the field. The resolutions are to be sent to the president of the United States, commanding general of the army, department commander, and governor of New Mexico. Copies were forwarded to the Eastern and Pacific press.

A Heavy Failure.

BOSTON, June 11.—The failure of Handleth, Ellis & Co, iron dealers in this city, is announced. Liabilities are estimated at $750,000. The suspension was caused by reason of the decline in value of their merchandise and the refusal of customers to carry contracts. Five-sixths of the liabilities are to banks and secured.

Texas Locals.

GRAHAM, TEX., June 11. R. Morris, county judge of Bayler county, was shot and killed in the court house at [illegible] yesterday, by W. A. Taylor [illegible]. Taylor escaped.

GALVESTON. June 11. The report from White ranch says four men were hanged up in Brown county, yesterday, by a mob. It is believed the offense was crookedness with cattle.

Firing on an American Schooner.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11—Warner & Merritt's fruit schooner, the "Ella A. Meritt," plying between this port and San Antonio was fired at on her homeward voyage, while upon the high seas fifteen miles east of Guanatamo and five miles from the shore by the Spanish man of war Nuncia. The war steamer first fired a blank shot, in reply to which Captain Rand showed his colors, but a second shot was fired which struck the water and, glancing upward, passed through his rigging. The Ella A. Merritt then lay to and the Spanish officers came aboard, looked around and went back. The schooner was then allowed to continue on her course.

Kings of the Turf.

CHICAGO, June 11.—A special of St. Julian's trot yesterday says St. Julian gave a magnificent exhibition of speed. He made the first quarter in 32¾, the half mile in 1:07, the three-quarters in 1:43, and the mile in 2:17¼. Hickock thinks he could have gone in 2:14, but was afraid to string him out.

DETROIT, June 11.—Hopeful trotted against St. Julian's time yesterday, but the track was heavy and a stiff wind blowing, so that the condition was not so favorable. The first trial made a mile in 2.21¼, and the second in 2.24½.

Tilden Making Ready

NEW YORK, June 11.—Frequent consultations are held at Tilden's house concerning the course in the Cincinnati convention, but it is uncertain whether Tilden intends to withdraw. John Kelly has declared once more in Tammany Hall he would not support Tilden on any terms.

Severe Hail Storm

SIOUX CITY, IA, June 11.—A heavy hail storm yesterday broke a vast amount of glass, and subsequently stores and residences were flooded by the rain, causing a damage of $10,000. Hail stones eleven inches in circumference were picked up, and in sheltered places lay in drifts till after night fall.

Consistent Greenbacker.

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—Charles A. Hill, a lawyer and former resident of California, was arrested at his office to-day with a complete counterfeiter's outfit and arrangements for raising bills. He had been a prominent greenback speaker.

FOREIGN.

Greek Frontier.

BERLIN, June 11. It is stated a supplementary conference at Athens will have to deal in all with six proposals for the readjustment of the Greek frontier, but a great number of these proposals will be promptly disposed of. France and England have agreed to stand up for the cession of territory recommended as a minimum of what will be granted by Turkey to Greece. Turkey is in sympathy and it is not believed that Austria and Russia will antagonize the majority of the powers whose vote is decisive.

Gladstone's Financial Report Approved of.

LONDON, June 11. The Times is favorable to Gladstone's financial statement. It concludes by saying the supplementary budget will give Gladstone a balance of 380,000 pounds for contingencies, which he considers sufficient in future years. It is calculated the changes proposed will bear rich fruit.

Stormy Debate at Madrid.

MADRID, June 11.—A stormy debate occurred in the senate to-day on the motion of confidence in the government. General Campos vehemently denounced the policy of the ministry, whereupon the premier Canovas del Castillo protested against the threatening language of General Campos.

Civil war in South America.

LONDON, June 11. The Times in a financial article says it is said a private telegram reached this city yesterday announcing an arrangement between the opposing parties in Buenos Ayres is probable. The chief gains ground that the federal government is too strong to be shaken just now by the insurgent bands.

Blowing up Lloyd's Agency.

VIENNA, June 11. A telegram from Albania reports Lloyd's agency there has been undermined and blown up. An official was severely wounded. The buildings are partly destroyed. The originators of the outrage are unknown.

Division Among Bonapartists

PARIS, June 11. Paul De Cassagnac has resigned his office of deputy, because of division in the Bonapartist party.

When the Convention will Meet.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES A. GARFIELD.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

"I WOULD ENDOW THE TWO DOLLARS WITH EQUALITY AND MAKE COINAGE FREE."—From Speech of J. A. Garfield, February 21, 1878.

The Pacific coast is sure for Garfield and Arthur. The Oregon election is a certain omen of victory.

The white house will not appear like an English court for four years to come, as Freddie Grant said it would.

Even the graduates from the High school use the "Little Pittsburg swindle" as an illustration to point a moral with.

The third attempted assassination of Holland demands investigation. Superficial observation points to Gramacy Park as the residence of the instigator.

Responsible Colorado republicans are amazed at our exposure of Garfield's silver record.—Denver News.

They were amazed only at the unblushing falsehoods that the News told.

Mr. Garfield never was a clergyman. Some of our contemporaries have repeated this error probably having imbibed it from the News, which, by the way has not made a single accurate statement in regard to Mr. Garfield.

Wednesday the News spelled it De Golien, Thursday De Golier, and Friday De Golyer. It now knows enough to spell it right, pretty soon it will find out what the De Golyer contract is and Garfield's connection with it. It evidently don't know now.

The enterprise of the press report is remarkable. It failed to send a single item in regard to the regular proceedings of Saturday in the report that evening. Yesterday's telegraph report managed to get through the resolutions passed on Saturday. It was received by mail two days earlier in the Chicago papers.

The idea of pitting Tilden against Garfield because of the result of the last presidential election, is absurd. The New York World lately rehearsed the Oregon fraud, showing that Tilden tried to buy the electoral vote of at least one state, Tilden is the legitimate representative of fraud, bribery and dishonesty in politics.

Professor Diman, of Brown University, has recently been lecturing on constitutional history. In one of his lectures he describes the origin and history of the machine. The origin of it he assigned to that brilliant, accomplished and astute master of intrigue and diplomacy, Aaron Burr, who was of the opinion that parties should be managed like an army; that the people didn't know what they wanted themselves and so they must have matters arranged for them; in other words, a "machine" must be organized. The history of this delectable institution was traced down through the days of the Albany Regency to the present time, the lecturer stating in the same connection that the first man to publicly advocate the principle of "to the victors belong the spoils," was Senator Marcy, of New York. This is very interesting, and the paternity of it is very properly attributed to Aaron Burr, the most corrupt and dangerous politician this country ever had.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the successful effort to take possession of the Denver and Rio Grande road by its owners. Considerable doubt existed at the time in the minds of those who had not examined into the merits of the case as to the legality and fairness of this proceeding. The peculiar decisions of Judge Hallett's court increased those doubts. Now a year has passed away and the case can be reviewed more calmly. The present status of the Denver and Rio Grande road is sufficient vindication for the part its president and associates played in the exciting scenes of June and July, 1879, notwithstanding every act then done by the Rio Grande road was reversed by Judge Hallett. In June, 1870 President Palmer in behalf of the stockholders and bondholders of the company claimed the right to operate the road. In June, 1880, the company is in undisputed possession of the road. In June, 1879, the Rio Grande company were pressing its claims to the Grand Canon and Judge Hallett was rendering decisions to keep them out of it. In June, 1880, it has undisputed possession of the canon and is pressing its road with vigor to Leadville. The mills of the gods grind slow, but they also grind exceeding small.

The vote of Colorado can never be cast for James A. Garfield, as he was the man who offered the amendment in the house demonetizing silver and had it smuggled through the senate.—Pueblo Democrat.

The Democrat is mistaken in what it says about Mr. Garfield's silver record. He did not offer such an amendment. The bill was prepared by the house committee on coinage and was engineered by Samuel Hooper. It was voted for by democrats and republicans alike. Mr. Garfield was no more responsible for it than Senator Voorhees and other democrats then in the house. The Democrat is a strongly partisan paper, but it usually fights fair, we trust therefore that it will admit its mistake.

On Thursday and Friday democratic conventions were held in several states which with hardly an exception sent anti-Tilden delegates. These states will cast the following vote in the Cincinnati convention:—

Michigan	22
Tennessee	24
Missouri	30
Georgia	22
Illinois	42
Indiana	30
Total	170

It will require a two-third vote to nominate, or 504. One more than one-third, or 253, will be enough to defeat Tilden's nomination. This number with the votes of the conventions mentioned above has been already obtained. The nomination of Tilden now is not as remote a possibility as that of Grant was. The democrats need not fear that they must march under his banner, nor need the republicans congratulate themselves that they will have so easy an opponent to beat.

Pueblo's Prosperity.

The future of Pueblo is great. With the completion of her steel works, her stove works, her iron foundry, the Leadville broad guage, the Pueblo & Silver Cliff road, the new hotel, the new opera house, the gas works and a host of other enterprises, our citizens can look forward with pride to the time when Pueblo will be second to none in the state. Boost the boom along.—Chieftain.

The Instructed.

It has been remarked that Conkling, Cameron and Logan went to Chicago "instructed," but returned a great deal more so.—Denver Tribune.

Edmunds at West Point.

Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, is here in his official capacity as a member of the board of visitors attending the examination of the Military academy, now in progress. His family, consisting of his wife and two daughters, are also here. The senator betrays no concern whatever in the agitation of his name for the highest office in the land. This indifference appears to be ingrained in the nature of the man. At meals, which he takes at the same table and in company with the other members of the board and their families, he speaks but little, while his colleagues are ever chattering and laughing. His facial appearance has been compared to that of St. Jerome. There is the same long, full gray beard, the bald and sloping dome of the head, the bowed, introspective, solemn and thoughtful look, as if life were a sad and awful responsibility. The senator stands about six feet and is rather unevenly constructed. His shoulders are high and rounded and his head has a forward projection. His skin is sallow and his beard full and iron gray. His head, save on the margin above the ears, is as bald as a marble slab. He has large blue gray eyes with a mild and humane expression. While not an imposing man, he would be singled out in a miscellaneous crowd as one of some worth. He seems to be a man who does nothing by halves. Given a subject, he goes to the bottom of it and masters it. He wants nothing to distract his attention here from the business in hand—the visitation and examining of the Academy. When he attends at the library he takes up the programme of exercises and reads carefully over and over the names of the cadets in each section, when it comes up for examination, as if he were trying to fasten each name securely in his memory, with a note of the impression its owner made upon him. He tries to understand the problems in military engineering, and frequently consults the professors for enlightenment on a particularly dark conundrum concerning the angles of a salient or the like. He is not appalled by the fearful diagrams inscribed in chalk on the blackboard, but follows the cadet and his pointer with a faithful eye through all the bewildering fog of his explanations about magistrals, embrasures, tenaille, and other mysterious terms of the military engineer's vocabulary.

He is here to look into the working of the institution, and one may be sure that he will do it honestly and thoroughly. Some men weary of the examinations, as they are not theatrical displays to the accompaniment of music, but as a rule dull, prosy delvings into the mire of scientific knowledge. Some cadets are slow and tedious, and others seem to have acquired an acquaintance with a study simply by rote and without a due understanding of its meaning and application. The listeners, who have not proper appreciation of the fact that this apparently parrot learning will one day germinate in great accomplishments, pay but little attention and vote the exhibition a bore. The senator from Vermont is not one of this kind. He listens as attentively to the dullest as to the brightest members of a class, for he knows there is some good somewhere in all of them. The senator dresses well, wears a tall silk hat, a close buttoned coat of expensive dark purple French cloth, pantaloons of fancy design, a high shirt collar and a black gold sprigged scarf. In conversation his voice is low and pleasant, but in debate it has a ringy, resonant, and at times imperious tone. Of all the public men in America he is perhaps the least demonstrative. He might be at West Point for a whole year and nobody would ever discover from himself who he was.

Sarah Bernhardt's Dresses.

Felix, the great man-milliner of the Faubourg St. Honore, sent out invitations the other day to a select few to view Sarah Bernhardt's dresses for the new London performances. Sarah has started on what will perhaps be her last journey with the members of the Comedie Francaise, she and several other comrades having signed an engagement to play in London before the late quarrel. Felix has made the dresses—never mind who has made the plays. They are to dazzle London, and he naturally wished them to dazzle Paris in the first place, hence the invitation. I went down, and was extremely delighted, not so much with the frocks, for though they were very beautiful I was hardly able to appreciate them, but with the scene. I passed two solemn feminine bookkeepers in the ante-room down stairs, then walked up into a thickly-curtained, stuffy entresol, lit with gas-light though it was broad-day outside, and filled with a crowd of women almost kneeling in rapture before the sacred objects. These images of the saints à la mode de Paris were displayed on chairs and sofas propped up so as to make them look as much as possible as if the real Sarah were inside. There were fifteen headless women in fact. There was every variety of beauty, as beauty is understood in these matters. One magnificent thing in black satin, dotted all over with jet, almost stood by its own weight. This I believe is for l'Etrangere for the solemn entry of Mrs. Clarkson in one scene of one act. Another, made of a creamy silk trimmed with fine artificial [illegible] I [illegible] exactly like an enlarged bit of Dresden china work, the roses standing out with a crispness as though they had been carved or cast. Then there was a Turkish dress, Adrienne Lecouvreur, with a good deal of brilliant embroidery on it and other charming inventions, which, as I tell you once more, I could only appreciate through the ecstasy of the saint, half-smothered cries of the devotional fair. It was really very droll to hear mais j'est ravissant! c'est merveilleux! c'est joli! joli! coli! Amid them all the man milliner stalked about with the proud look of mastery of the farmyard bird, and now and then he picked out one of his feminine aids to put on a dress and twisted her round and round to show the points. In a corner were two monumental trunks, hardly to be measured in length by one's extended arms, which were to convey the things to London. Even these were got up in the prettiest way, lined with satin and bearing a huge S. B. on the outside of the waterproof cover of the wicker work. In this royal state does Sarah set forth to carry war into Britain. Paris Correspondence N. Y. World.

Henri Rochefort.

The New York Times gives the following sketch of Rochefort, whose duel with Koechlin has already been announced by cable:

"Henri Rochefort is an extreme sensationalist. He is as uneasy as a lobster in boiling water when he cannot be the center of some current notoriety. Ever since he has been obliged to stay in Geneva, awaiting a general amnesty from France embracing political offenders of his class, he has chafed like a caged hyena, and made every effort to keep himself before the public by writing what may be called rampant pronunciamentos to the reddest of Red Republican journals. His latest screed is addressed to the Prefect of Police at Paris whom he threatens with personal chastisement for the wounds received by his son during the late communistic demonstration in that city. He assumes, absurdly enough, that the prefect is directly and individually responsible for the injuries done the youth, and charges that the officer opposes the expected amnesty because he is afraid of punishment at the journalist's hands. This is the essence of braggadocio, and is unworthy of Rochefort, who as a man of courage, proved on more than one occasion, should not so lightly question the courage of others. Only bullies and poltroons are, as a rule, addicted to this; and he is not a poltroon, though it must be confessed that he sometimes plays the bully. He became a prominent political character while editor of La Lanterne, in 1869, and he created such a commotion in Paris that since that time he has never been able to endure anything akin to tranquility. No Frenchman of the day has led a more exciting life during the last twelve years. From the day he was banished from the Figaro, on account of the menaces of the imperial administration, he has fought duels, been fined, thrown into prison, been a fugitive, a transported convict, has escaped, has lectured in this city, and returned to Europe. He has lived in Geneva since, biding his time, as he would say, for revenge upon his enemies who are everybody that fails to accept his views on all subjects. Rochefort, a true irreconcilable, will be back in Paris ere long to resume his fierce agitations and air once more his colossal egotism. As he is but 50 years old, he can yet give the government, whatever its form, no little trouble. He is a constitutionable and incurable malcontent."

John Adams at Dinner.

I well remember the modest dinners at the president's, to which I brought a schoolboy's appetite. The pudding, generally composed of boiled corn meal, always constituted first course. This was the custom of the time, it being thought desirable to take edge off of one's hunger before reaching the joint. Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young and to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat which was to follow. It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent. Mr. Adams made his contribution to the service of the table in the form of that good-humored, easy banter, which makes a dinner of herbs more digestible than is a stalled ox without it. I can distinctly picture to myself a certain iron spoon which the old getleman once fished up from the depths of a pudding, in which it had been unwitting cooked, but of the pleasantest things he said in those easy dinner talks no trace remains. Hon. Josiah Quincy, in Feb. [illegible]

Miss Ward's French Pronunciation.

There is a saying about an ill bird which I do not care to quote, but the press sometimes does do foolish things. Miss Genevieve Ward played in London lately in "L'Aventuriere," one of Augier's finest pieces, and she played it in French as she alone among English speaking actresses could play it. There is absolutely no difference between her French and her English, and those who are able to judge of her English will see what a compliment this implies to her French. But a London critic noticing the performance thought it would be a safe thing to say that her French was marked with an accent. He was of the school of cognoscenti dear to Goldsmith's friend, who always saved himself by the remark that the picture would have been better done if the painter had taken more pains. The indignant actress at once wrote over to M. Regnier, the first living teacher of French elocution, and received from him a brilliant testimonial to her linguistic skill. An admiring Frenchman on this side, who notices the controversy with a wish to do honor to Miss Ward, writes her name throughout as Miss "Hard" and so we write the current history of the time. Richard Whiteing in N. Y. World.

An Extraordinary Musical Festival.

The total receipts of the festival are about $52,000. The total expenses will not be very far from $45,000. Campanini was paid to-night $2,800 for his services, and the goodly pile of greenbacks were as sweet notes to him as his to the audience which he has so much delighted.

The large sum paid him is in fulfillment of a contract to sing at each of the concerts, afternoon and evening. No other artist agreed to this severe condition. Miss Cary received $1,200 and expenses, Mr. Whitney 1,000, Miss Sherwin, Miss Norton, Miss Cranch, Mr. Harvey and Mr. Rudolphsen $400 each. Dudley Buck receipted for his $1,000 to-day, and Theodore Thomas will be paid $5,000 to-morrow for his labors as Director.

The expenses attached to bringing the Philharmonic Orchestra from New York are $10,000, and the Cincinnati players take $8,000.

The chorus singers have toiled purely for the love of art. They have not been allowed as much as street car fare. The arrangements have been conducted on vigorous business principles. No individual connected even in an official way with the Festival has enjoyed the luxury of a complimentary seat. If he heard the music he paid for his privilege like everybody else. The close of the Festival is being celebrated to-night by a reception given by the Musical Club in honor of the soloists. Cincinnati Commercial.

An Anecdote of Grant.

A soldier writing to the Indianapolis Journal incidentally narrates the following: "One day, while working a fatigue party on the canal, the 'silent soldier,' with John A. Rawlins, came down to see how they were progressing. Rawlins said: 'General Grant, the rebels can see enough to surmise what we are wanting to do, and, as there is so much impatience in the North, would it not be well enough to allow some correspondent to say that it the canal is not a military and naval success, the sanitary effects on the army will more than repay the labor invested? That the men remaining idle and camped in the e low lands would die by thousands from inaction.' General Grant's reply I can never forget: 'Colonel Rawlins, this life is too brief to be frittered away in making explanations.'"

Miss Katy.

Miss Kate's a member of the choir,
But often comes in late,
And in the chorus sings so loud
That she's called coruscate.

Not true Kate's voice is mild and low,
Enchanting as a lyre;
And if the truth you'd know,
To church go and in choir.

Pat says: "Be Jabers! ye are right;
'Tis true whwat ye hev said:
Mis Kateen, singing, every night
I hears, about me head."

UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE!

The proprietors of the brewery have determined to put down prices of the above so as to command the trade of El Paso county. The prices now are as low as any beer, and the article is one hundred per cent. better, both as a beverage and health-giving properties. Ale and stout cost more to produce, and always command much higher prices; but, as we wish the public to judge for themselves, is the reason for the great reduction. Once used, always used. It is as far above lager beer as the finest imported wines are superior to domestic.

May 23, 1880.

Contents of the Weekly Gazette.

The WEEKLY GAZETTE for June 12, which appears this morning will be found of more than ordinary interest, containing, as it does, the fullest information concerning the doings of the republican national convention at Chicago.

The first page is devoted to miscellany, opening with a three column account of the life of General J. A. Garfield, the republican nominee for president. The GAZETTE is the only newspaper in Colorado that has published a full biographical sketch of General Garfield, and that sketch appeared in the daily which contained the news of Garfield's nomination. There will be found an interesting sketch of Hale and Andre and some amusing stories of Charles Lamb. There is a humorous account of the doings of the gallery women and the page concludes with a column of Unconsidered Trifles.

On the telegraphic page is a complete account of the nomination of Garfield at the Chicago convention, and in addition all the latest news from both the new and old world.

The editor discusses the Chicago convention and remarks upon the "Changed Ratio of Gold and Silver." The position of General Garfield on the silver question is defined and shown to be sound, and an editorial upon the nomination is given. In addition there are a large number of editorial notes upon affairs both at home and abroad.

In the local department will be found several articles especially interesting to ranchmen. There is an account of a wonderful yield of wool from five rams owned by the Hon. Ivory Phillips and also the latest quotations and ruling rates for wool in the east. The weekly earnings of the Denver and Rio Grande road are given, together with a description by a correspondent of the GAZETTE of a lawn party given by Dr. Reynolds. There is also a column devoted to describing the proposed opera house which Messrs. Crowell, Humphrey and Howbert are to erect this summer in this city. Letters from regular correspondents of the GAZETTE in Rico and Ruby Camp will be found and also a spicy letter from South Arkansas. In addition there are the real estate transfers, markets to date and letter list. There are many personals and local articles which our space will not allow us to particularize.

On Thursday night the Denver and Rio Grande road was finished six miles out of Buena Vista.

The Denver and Rio Grande road hauled one train of forty car-loads of bullion out of Buena Vista yesterday morning.

Forest fires in the mountains have so filled the air with smoke that the sun yesterday, although very warm, was hardly visible.

That awful cow with the crumpled horn that nipped the strawberries 'ere the morn, is now a prisoner all forlorn in the pound the city built.

El Paso Lodge No. 13. will hold a regular communication to-night in their hall. Work in the the third degree. Visiting brethren are cordially invited to be present.

The prominent republicans about town are talking up the matter of forming a Garfield and Arthur club. It is proposed to hold a ratification meeting on the occasion of forming the club, at which good speakers will appear, good music be furnished and a good time generally enjoyed. When the matter is fully decided, due announcement will be made in the GAZETTE.

The capital prizes at the entertainment given by Prof. Macallister last evening were drawn by Miss Carrie Roman and Mr. Alfred Dobbs, the former taking $10 and the latter $5. Please remember that the matinee this afternoon and the entertainment this evening will be the best given in [illegible] you will have two more chances to draw the cash prizes of $15.

RACING AT THE FAIR GROUND.

An Exciting Little Race with Large Wagers.

Yesterday's race on the Fair Ground Driving Park excited much interest among the sporting men about town. Talbot's Mex and Lamasney's Dobelly were the contesting horses. Mex is one of the handsomest of running horses and is as full of metal as need be, while Dobelly is a dapper little pony of clean build and fine spirit. We have seldom seen a more interested concourse of spectators than those assembled in the grand stand yesterday afternoon and engaged in canvassing the prospects of the racers.

An attempt was made to sell pools on the race but as no odds were being offered the pool sellers did a poor business, those inclined to bet preferring to make private wagers, without the drawback of a percentage to the pool box.

The spectators were all on the ground by three o'clock and an hour was spent in getting ready for the race. The getting ready consisted in walking the horses up and down the track, closely clad in their blankets, and in making wagers as to the result. Neither horse could command odds although even bets could readily be obtained on either. At last it was announced that the race would be run on the east side of the course and everybody left the grand stand and and crossed over to the other side. The horses took their places and the word was given. The start was a false one as were several others which allowed of more betting and money was put up in sums ranging from one dollar to fifty dollars.

At last the horses got off on a very even start. The pony had the pole and kept neck and neck with Mex until within fifty yards of the finish when the big horse crowded ahead and opened a lead of about two lengths. This lead was held to the end, both jockeys whipping their horses like mad. The victory of Mex was received with cheers and the winners pocketed their money and the losers their disappointment. Probably more money changed hands on this little race than on any of a similar character for years.

There will be another match race on the Fair Ground track this afternoon and a good deal of interest is felt as to the result.

Through Difficulties.

We have received the first number of the first volume of the Mountain Mail, published at South Arkansas, the city recently described in our columns by our vivacious correspondent, Peter Parley. At first we thought some one had "put a head" on our esteemed and recent contemporary in the vulgar acceptation of the term, however, after reading the explanation of the editor, which is not an apology, we made a motion to reconsider our former opinion which motion was carried unanimously.

The story of the troubles of the Mountain Mail are pathetically related as follows: "It is a well known fact that Job was a patient man. But he never undertook the job of moving a printing office that had been knocked into a cocked hat for a year, setting it up in a new place and getting out a paper inside of a week. We would rather have "biles" from this time until Gabriel's trumpet sounds, than to do the job a second time.

At 1 o'clock on Friday afternoon, May 28, the first lick was struck on our building. In two hours we had our press set up on the floor while the carpenters were hammering and sawing over our heads. Upon examination we found that the type was all in pi, advertising and column rules gone or so damaged as to be useless, leads broken or bent, cases full of dirt and the wind bringing more of it in through the cracks and knot holes. But June 5 was the day set for the first issue of the Mountain Mail, and issue it must. We telegraphed to Chicago for column rules and they came on in good time. Paper and ink had to be secured in like manner, but the latter has not arrived. We sent for a heading for our paper to be sent by mail, but it failed to come to time. Mr. Geo. A. Smith, one of our enterprising dry goods merchants, came to our relief by drafting the letters on a pine board for a heading. Mr. B. F. Montgomery whittled the head out with his pocket-knife and we put it in the form and went to press. It is not a handsome head but it has some peculiarities. For instance, the M in Mail seems to have met with an accident which partially disabled it. And then some of the blurs around it remind us of the dark spot in some people's characters. We charge these spots to the poor quality of ink used. It was some that we chanced to find in an old lard bucket under the floor of the old office in Cleora. By softening it with turpentine, lard oil, petroleum and the sun, we managed to get it so it would spread and have spread it before you.

The paper does not present as clear an appearance as we would like. We will make it look better in the future.

This is not an apology, but an explanation."

A shooting match between Mr. Charles Stockbridge, of Colorado City, and Dr. Sanford, of Colorado Springs, took place yesterday afternoon. The first trial at 15 [illegible] killing nine birds. In shooting off the tie Dr. Sanford came out victorious.

Personal.

Mr. C. W. Barker, late of the Manitou House, Manitou, is in South Arkansas looking over the prospects there for a hotel.

Mr. Cadwell H. Colt, of Hartford, Conn., is registered at the Springs hotel.

Mr. J. A. McMurtrie, of the Denver & Rio Grande, was in the city yesterday.

Messrs. F. E. Thom and Frank Bearce, of Chicago, registered at the signal station on the Peak yesterday.

Col. T. P. Robb, of Chicago, arrived on the morning train yesterday.

Among the arrivals at the National yesterday were Messrs. W. M. Castler, R. Ganes and I. H. Lackland, of St. Charles, Mo.

Prof. Ralstin's Resignation.

The resignation of Professor J. P. Ralstin, of the Deaf Mute Institute has been handed in to the trustees and will probably be accepted. We understand that Professor Ralstin has been tendered a position of more value to himself and family and therefore he presents his resignation, which is to take effect on the 15th of the present month. Professor Ralstin has been a thorough and efficient teacher and a gentleman highly esteemed in society. The Deaf Mute Index, of June 11th speaks as follows of Professor Ralstin's resignation: "Professor J. P. Ralstin has held the position of Principal in the Deaf Mute Institute since the establishment of the school in 1874, and now, after six years of labor, he retires to accept a more lucrative position. We are not informed as to who will be appointed to succeed him, but we think the board of trustees will give the position to a man in every way competent to fill it. To Prof Ralstin we extend our best wishes for future success in all his undertakings and cheerfully accord him all the credit which his labors here entitle him to. We are unable, at this time, to state whether there will be any increase in the number of teachers at the beginning of the next session, but believe that such increase will be ordered by the board, if it should be apparent to them that the welfare of the pupils require it."

Actual Comparison the True Test.

A. J. Johnson & Co's. agents do not prefer to make statements concerning the comparative merits of "Johnson's New Universal Cyclopedia" and other similar works, but rather to show the difference by actual comparison. There can be but one result. Note the following:

From Frank H. Loud, professor of mathematics and metaphysics in Colorado college.

To whom it may concern:

Until quite recently I have been skeptical in regard to the possibility of finding as much in the four volumes of "Johnson's New Universal Cyclopedia" as in the sixteen of Appleton's. But upon examining the two works together I have seen reason to modify my opinion. After showing me a great variety of full and very instructive articles upon various departments of natural science, Mr. Easterly invited me to select any one branch and compare all that could be found in the two Cyclopedias on subjects included under it. Knowing that Professor Abbe had contributed a considerable series of articles on meteorology to Appletons I selected that branch, and I am bound to say that in every point so far as the somewhat hurried examination could indicate, Johnson's appeared as complete as its rival. Judging from all that I read from its articles, I consider "Johnson's New Universal Cyclopedia" in the department of science to be exceedingly reliable. A work which every student of science in our public and higher schools ought to have the opportunity to consult.

FRANK H. LOUD.

Colorado Springs, June 9, 1880.

From Rev. Henry C. Westwood, D. D., pastor Central Presbyterian church, Denver, Colorado.

DENVER, January 23, 1880.

I have for two years past used Johnson's Cyclopedia as a book of reference, almost daily, and having therefore tested its merits, I can safely and confidently recommend it as the best for general use, of all the Cyclopedias. No family should be without it. Although I have the Britannica, I would not part with my Johnson for any price it it could not be replaced.

HENRY C. WESTWOOD.

OUT WEST.

The Cottonwood pass is now open.

New peaches are in the market at Denver.

Castello's tent was blown down for the third time while in Como City.

The Gunnison Review, of June 5, says: "Parties who come through Marshall Pass report a very good road—only a few muddy places."

The Pueblo Chieftain says: "Ranchmen in from the south say that the grass is about three inches high thirty miles southwest of the city."

The late miners in Leadville are using coercive measures to prevent miners from working who are willing to, and the business of the camp is at a stand-still.

The Pitkin Light Cavalry was organized at Leadville a few days ago, and elected: Captain, Randolph Carpenter; first lieutenant, H. Parlin; second lieutenant, K. R. Casper; surgeon, Dr. H. A. Newpher.

At the present there are nearly one thousand prospectors camped in plain view of West Gunnison. All are armed with good rifles and could make a formidable resistance to an attack by the bloodthirsty Utes.

The Buena Vista Times says: "Mr. C. R. Berry made a panning of two pans of surface dirt from the Tatlow placer claim, owned by R. G. Smith, one mile and a half from town, which, on amalgamation, showed one grain of pure gold. Lower down prospects have been much better, showing the claim to be a good one."

The Saguache Chronicle says: "Saguache creek is now running full of water, and the chances are that there will be plenty of water for irrigation all the season. We urge our farmers and ranchmen to be industrious and vigilant, and make every pound of grain, hay and vegetable possible, as all will be needed at high prices."

The following is Leadville's bullion product for last week:

La Plata Mining and Smelting company	$44,408
American Smelting company	13,363
Billings & Eilers	28,438
Harrison Reduction works	32,810
Ohio & Missouri	57,557
Cummings & Finn	36,026
Elgin Mining and Smelting Co	10,423
The Grant Smelting Co
Eddy, James & Co
Total	$223,025

The unterrified, yet ever-suave and gentlemanly Dr. Hull, of the Pueblo Democrat, cheers us with the following charming picture which we reproduce at the same time insisting that when they "set 'em up" it was soda water every time, but here is the doctor's rose colored picture: "Yesterday we saw a novel sight: The three Pueblo editors standing in a row and smiling upon each other, as though earth were a paradise and they were three winged angels. First the man with the auburn locks set 'em up, then he of the skating rink pate followed suit, and last, but not least, the one of Falstaffian bread basket trumped both their tricks, and—and—and—that's all."

The census taker canvassing in the northern part of the city yesterday enumerated Colorado Springs first born. He is a smart little fellow nearly nine years old, the son of Mr. Henry Snyder. The Colorado Springs company at that time had a standing offer of a lot to be deeded to the first child born in the "new town." The prize was awarded to Mr. Snyder's little son, but the deed has not yet been made out. So says Mrs. Snyder. It is about time that deed was handed over to the boy but a committee of investigation would no doubt discover it among the archives of the Colorado Springs company. We hope it will be sought out and delivered to the rightful owner.
